Bruce Turner

Director of European Political and Security Affairs, U.S. Department of State

Bruce Turner has been the Director of the Office of European Political and Security Affairs since September 2008, following a year as Principal Deputy Director. He manages U.S. security policy in Europe, with a particular focus on NATO and the OSCE, which include a large Russia component and certain aspects of conventional arms control.

Mr. Turner's previous assignments include tours abroad in Paris, Moscow, Vienna at the U.S. Mission to the OSCE, Brussels at the U.S. Mission to NATO, and Ankara. In Washington he has worked on North Korean as well as German and Turkish affairs.
